Recorded January 7, 2010 - Online Collaborative Family Law Lisa Collins Werner Ever wish that you could help your clients heal from the pain and destruction of a marriage that has fallen apart? Couples and families have found resolution and satisfaction by using a type of mediation that is relatively new to Tennessee. It's called Collaborative Divorce. It helps couples divide marital property and determine what is in the best interests of their children by using a forward thinking model of conflict resolution. The divorce is handled in a series of four way meetings between the clients and their attorneys. The process is completely transparent. The couple and attorneys agree at the beginning of the process that they will work together to create positive solutions to the issues that need to be resolved.	1 hour of General Mediation Issues	5:30	6:30	1 hr General Mediation Issues
